Subject: Total HVAC acquires Mastron Mechanical to provide a more comprehensive product offering

We are pleased to announce that Total HVAC has acquired Mastron.

Mastron has serviced the local construction industry for over four decades specializing in contracting projects, the production of sheet metal products, and representing a variety of ventilation products.

Total HVAC is a leading equipment representative in Eastern Ontario with more than 25 years experience, specializing in plan-spec and design-build projects in the industrial, commercial and institutional sectors (ICI). Its employees provide expertise in design assistance, equipment selection, project management and parts supply.

Mastron and Total HVAC's offerings have a natural synergy. This transaction strengthens Total HVAC's position as a leading mechanical equipment supplier while adding an increased variety of products and services. Our focus will be on expanding our equipment supply offerings while ensuring Mastron will continue to offer the same high-quality sheet metal products and services with the same highly skilled professionals. Total HVAC and Mastron have been long-time collaborators that share similar values of professionalism, service-based mentality and teamwork, as well as a passion for providing added value on all our projects from start to finish.

The local construction community can continue to interact with Total HVAC or Mastron, using the same contacts as in the past.

We're very excited to build and grow our combined businesses and thank you for your ongoing support. We look forward to continuing to serve you in the years to come.
